FOR RACE AND NATION

INTERN THE TERRORISTS

IT WAS INEVITABLE that the new Labour government would want to explore new ways to revive the peace process. Perhaps the Tories hadn't tried everything that they might have done. Perhaps IRA/Sinn Fein would be more amenable to talks with a Labour government than with a Tory one. Perhaps.

But the peace process and the ceasefire was always purely an IRA tactic: they thought that they might achieve their objectives by talks rather than by force. When they realised that wasn't so, they resorted once again to murder.

Starting in February of last year and the Canary Wharf bombing in which two people died and hundreds were injured, the IRA went on to bomb Manchester in June causing 200 injuries. Massive car bombs were used on both occasions. Only a miracle prevented loss of life in Manchester. Just days later, the provos mortared a British army barracks in Germany.

And there were still fools calling for the restoration of the peace process. BN asked at the time: What peace process?

In the July, the IRA bombed the Killyhevlin hotel in Enniskillen during a wedding reception for 250 people. A twelve-foot crater produced forty injuries.

And in September, police foiled an IRA terror squad in London which had planned to cripple the capital's electricity supply.

Then in October, 34 were injured after two car bombs went off inside Thiepval army barracks in Lisburn, the second of which was designed to kill casualties being evacuated to the casualty station.

Just before Christmas, the IRA revealed its inner bestial self when two of its gunmen entered Belfast's Royal Hospital for Sick Children to shoot Nigel Dodds, an advisor to the DUP and a participant in the all-party 'peace talks', who was visiting his desperately sick son in the hospital.

And still there were calls for Sinn Fein to be admitted to talks! When the farcical peace process began, Sinn Fein/IRA had to agree to decommission its arms before being included in the talks. Now, the government say that Sinn Fein will be included in talks if only the IRA declare another 'ceasefire'.

In February

Little Louie Johnston cries for his daddy murdered by the IRA

of this year, the IRA demonstrated its ability to shoot its victims in the back. Lance Bombardier, Stephen Restorick was shot in the back and killed by a sniper as he checked a driving licence at a vehicle check point.

Last month, two IRA killers walked up behind two policemen and shot them in the back of the head, and as they fell dying to the ground, riddled them with bullets again. The two policemen, John Graham and David Johnston had both been previously awarded police service medals for bravery. John left a wife and three little girls and David left a wife and two little boys.

Not a single Sinn Fein spokesman has condemned the killings. In fact, the two Sinn Fein councillors on Craigavon borough council, where the latest murders took place, boycotted a minute's silence held in memory of the dead men.

Before this, Tony Blair had said to Sinn Fein/IRA that: "The settlement train is leaving with or without Sinn Fein." The words were calculated to make Sinn Fein dash to catch that train. Their response was the double police killing.

All throughout the sickening murders, British governments, Tory and Labour alike, have been shaking the bloody hands of the killers and talking to them. Even now, such talks are taking place. Tony Blair has told Sinn Fein that they can still join the peace talks in September if the IRA call a ceasefire and Northern Ireland Secretary of State, Mo Mowlam has been locked in 'talks' about the Orange marches this summer with Brendan McKenna, a convicted IRA terrorist whose accomplishments include hijacking, false imprisonment and carrying of a firearm with intent to endanger life.

The weakness of all the establishment parties has been evident throughout. In Britain, only one party has retained a consistent approach to the Northern Ireland problem and that is the British National Party. The BNP has consistently called for the elimination of the IRA. On the mainland, the BNP has demonstrated solidarity with our folk in Ulster on many occasions.

No doubt the politicians will try to keep the farcical peace process going. But there really is only one answer. The government has to declare war on the IRA. Internment is by far the best solution. It would stop the violence overnight. Following that, the government should tell our soldiers to take off the kid gloves and practice the shoot to kill policy that the IRA do. A BNP government would stop the terror within three weeks. What will Tony Blair do?

RACE HATE CRIMES AGAINST WHITES

The latest addition to a long list of sickening racial attacks on white people came last month when a little 8-year-old boy was ambushed by a gang of Asians and set on fire in what police are describing as "a racially motivated attack."

The little boy from Heckmondwike, West Yorkshire was taking a short-cut through the cemetery with a 14-year-old friend when they were attacked. Local policeman, Sergeant Fox said the gang sprayed lighter fuel at the boy, set him on fire and then threw him to the ground and kicked him. The three attackers aged 16-18 ran off leaving the boy on the ground.

Because the little boy is so young, police have had to bring in specially trained officers to interview him.

News of this appalling attack has been confined until now to The Huddersfield Daily Examiner. Where is the outcry from the national press? There is none of course, the victim doesn't count for them — he was only white.

This evil policy of multi-racialism has also left two white boys from Bethnal Green critically ill. One needs plastic surgery and the other needs intensive care after receiving multiple stab wounds.

The latest bout of ethnic cleansing came as 15 or so white youths aged 14-16 were playing football in an enclosed area and were attacked by 20 older Asians armed with knives, bottles, chains and axes in the early evening. The Asians, said one worried householder, were wearing masks and clearly set out to maim. More Asians joined in to block off escape routes and cheer the attackers on. One mother whose son was attacked and needed stitches to his arm and head said: "I sat with one boy on the floor and he had a great big cut down the back of his head that was hanging open. I tried to hold it together but I couldn't stop it. It was like a bloodbath round there, it was absolutely terrifying. I've never seen such bad injuries and we're very lucky none of them kids was killed."

Typically, the local press dubbed it a 'gang fight'. But the attack was unprovoked, premeditated and racial. Police, apparently, have not ruled out a link between this attack and one earlier when two gangs of Asians attacked three white boys. The three were attacked first by a seven-strong gang and then by another group of Asians who joined in leaving one white boy with numerous stab wounds in his neck, legs and back. His friend was stabbed in the leg.

Last year alone there were four racial murders perpetrated against whites: Christopher Farrell, Andrew Steventon, Mark Sharp and Danny Westmacott. The sickening catalogue of hate directed at the white community is being systematically ignored.

Politicians go out of their way to praise the multi-racial society. In doing so, they condone the murders and abandon the real British. There is only one voice speaking up for the British in Britain today, and that is the British National Party. It's time more Britons woke up to that fact.

THE CULT OF POLITICAL CORRECTNESS

British Airways drop the flag

British Airways — 'the world's favourite airline' has dropped its 'stuffy' British image and adopted a more 'modern' look. Richard Branson at Virgin Airways showed what he thought of the BA clanger by immediately adopting the flag for Virgin.

The disgraceful decision by BA to drop its colours and adopt a mish mash of others is likely to rebound, for BA has not replaced its old livery with another that will reinforce brand name awareness — it has adopted many liveries, with the result that BA will begin to struggle in terms of recognition and competitiveness. Worse still, BA will lose the solid sense of assurance one had with flying with a dependable safe airline. The new liveries make the aircraft look like the flag carriers of unheard of Third World states with lower standards of maintenance that make one fearful for one's own safety.

BA has wasted £millions on the scheme which has been approved by BA chief executive Bob Ayling. Bob clearly didn't do very well in the marketing course he attended, as the mish mash BA have decided on extends to more than twelve different tail fin designs. Meanwhile, BA in an effort to slash £1 billion from its cost base has decided that the cuts and sacrifices must come from its staff. Bob Ayling, the same chump who approved the new designs is also looking for confrontation with his workers instead of negotiation so as to grind the workers into the ground. Ayling said of plans for BA staff: "...what we're doing isn't fair, [but] we don't consider what's fair or not." His plans include: overtime payments to be made at basic rate and new employees to start work for less than their established colleagues, who of course, are themselves on their way out. A massive yes vote has been given to strike action by workers from several unions and BA's response has been to anticipate this and recruit an army of strikebreakers. An industrial dispute is probably unavoidable. Incredibly (or perhaps not so), Ayling is a Labour supporter and was recently invited to join the Downing Street policy unit upon the invitation of 'Tory' Blair. BN says

Noddy is innocent OK?

For years, the politically correct brigade have cleansed the shelves of book shops and libraries in a Nazi-style purge of anything that they didn't like. Out went Sherlock Holmes, Noddy, Biggles and a whole host of previous childhood books and experiences. Noddy was castigated for racism and sexism. Tessie Bear was a subservient female sexist stereotype and the golliwogs were obvious derogatory references to blacks. Now, New Zealand schoolboy Tom Hallett-Hook, 14, has just won first prize in a NZ national mathematics competition to find 'occurrences of political incorrectness' in Enid Blyton's Noddy books. Expressed in a series of complex algebraic equations, he found that all the allegations made of the Noddy books by political zealots have been unfounded. Golliwogs were not more naughty than other toys, Tessie bear was not a female doormat and Noddy was not a masochist. In fact, the naughtiest characters are the hideous looking goblins with their pointed ears, long noses, clannish nature and generally villainous countenances. Surprisingly, these characters have survived the politically correct rewrite which wrote out the golliwogs and wrote in the black 'Diana doll'. But at long last, the verdict is in. Noddy is not guilty. OK?

Why do liberals... ?

Why do liberals talk about celebrating diversity, yet wish to destroy it through race-mixing?

Why do liberals talk of love, yet show so much hate to those with whom they disagree ?
Why cannot different races be permitted to live in peace in different parts of the world in their own different ways?

Why are liberals the most aggressive opponents of free speech?

Why do liberals (ban this, censor that) behave like fascists?

Why do 'liberals' call themselves liberal?

EURO BOSSES MAKE BRITAIN SUFFER

British fishermen are under the euro-cosh as never before. Faced with attack from two directions, the government has done nothing at all to help our fishermen. On the one hand, the government has not helped our fisher folk to ward off the threat of overfishing and the consequent reductions in fishing fleets — thanks to the predations of the Europeans and secondly, what fishing has been allocated to British fishermen has been relentlessly bought up by the Euro quota hoppers who, unlike British fishermen, are subsidised.

British territorial waters account for nearly all of the EU's usable fish reserves — 80 per cent of it. The British fishermen's quota of our own fishing is a miserable 12 per cent. Last year, our fishing fleet was told that it would have to be reduced by half. The number of quota hoppers to be affected by the proposal was precisely none!

Before the Amsterdam treaty, which all the EU government heads attended, Blair said that "Labour has not ruled out withholding agreement at the IGC" if settlement of the problem was 'unsatisfactory'. It turns out that Blair did nothing except posture in the warm euro glow, before announcing that he had got 'concessions'. Quota hoppers would have to land half their catch in British ports he said, waving this 'concession' for all he was worth.

Fishermen will need no telling that that is the case already. Boats registered in any given country have to land half their catch in that country. Blair has betrayed our fishermen just as the Tories have done.

Labour also said that they will enforce a new 30% cut in the British fishing fleet which will bring the total cuts in Britain's fishing fleet to three-quarters — all to benefit the Europeans and impoverish Britain and the British people. Is there any record as shameful as the one successive British governments have with respect to our fishermen?

But it isn't just farmers and fishermen who are hit by the Europeans, everyone else is too!

British fisherman: Winning food and wealth from dangerous waters

The EU and its disastrous Common Agricultural Policy costs a typical household £50 per month in higher food prices to subsidise woefully inefficient European farmers. Since 1973, the British people have contributed £30 billion of tax-payers money to the EU black hole and British trade which had a surplus with the EU before entry has fallen into deficit ever since, with a total debt of £146 billion at today's prices. British people pay the huge Euro contributions with 17½% VAT on almost everything they buy. Soon, it will be VAT on everything. The BNP would withdraw from the EU tomorrow and abolish VAT. How much better off you would be if you didn't have to pay VAT and if you didn't have to pay an extra £50 per month for your food?

HOUSING ASSOCIATIONS THREATEN MIDDLE ENGLAND

The 'I'm all right Jack' attitude of the complacent middle class with respect to immigration could be about to end. When the Tories effectively made it impossible for councils to build more council housing, councils had to cooperate with dozens of new housing associations which were charged by the Tories to prioritise ethnic minorities.

Many of the commuting middle classes had moved out of the cities to improve their quality of life — and avoid the devastating impact immigration has had on the cities.

Culturally deprived Middle England will benefit from multi-racialism just as lucky Britons in the inner cities have done!

The BNP has learnt through talking to many people at election time that inner city councils are working hand in glove with the housing associations to spread the load and move people out into the whiter suburbs and even further afield. Properties in Dagenham (97% white) that fall vacant are being snapped up by housing associations who then move in the homeless from Hackney, Tower Hamlets, Newham, Waltham Forest etc. Needless to say, local residents are not amused. "They're creeping in all around here" said one woman during the course of the campaign. Dagenham of course is overwhelmingly working class, but now the same phenomenon is affecting more middle class areas as well.

Greenwich council has long had a policy of spreading its ethnic population around the borough so that everyone could experience the joys of multi-racialism, not just the lucky few in the sink estates. This idea is starting to take off. In Leeds, Birmingham, London and Liverpool moves are afoot to spread the joys of multi-racialism. Last month BN reported upon the recent riots in Leeds. Since then, BN has been informed that the Hyde Park area was formerly known for its Asian immigrants, but over a period of five or six years or so, many black families from Chapeltown have been moved into the area by the housing associations, 'creating a more diverse mix.'

Not wanting to be left out is Birmingham City Council who have told a consortium of builders developing a 40-acre site in prosperous Sutton Coldfield that one-quarter of the 500 new houses are to be used for housing either ethnic minorities or deprived (that is, 'problem') white families. Big-hearted Brummie councillors are insisting that the 120 houses allocated for this should be spread around the new estate to avoid a ghetto.

Nearby resident William Hayes, a retired engineer said: "We are going to have a lot of irresponsible people pushed onto us — I don't know how to put it without sounding snobbish, but probably some very low elements. People here are worried about the value of their property and the effect it will have on their way of life." Robin Paice, vice-chairman of the planning committee defended the decision and said that the fears of people in Sutton Coldfield were based on ignorance and that the matter had been decided.

BN is pleased that William will be pondering the effect it may have on his life. Imagine it. Inner-city Bullring Birmingham come to Sutton Coldfield! The lawlessness, drug-taking, late night parties, the odd rape and ram-raid plus a general rise in mugging, burglary and car crime. The general quality of life would deteriorate of course, residents would feel less safe and the value of their properties will decline.

Some Britons have, over the years, taken the attitude that if they moved 'out of it' then it was not their problem. As an attitude, it is as reprehensible as it is short-sighted. At some stage, the whole country will have to face up to race as an issue. That William and his neighbours are focussing on this issue now is all to the good and if the housing associations continue with their tricks, the whole country might yet come alive to the terrible problems that we all face.

THE TED BUDDEN COLUMN

APOLOGY FOR A PRIME MINISTER

I see that our brand new Leader, Tony Blair, he of the toothy grin, shifty eyes, and nauseating simulated earnestness; has ingratiated himself with the IRA by apologising for the Irish potato famine of the 1840s. This will no doubt bring joy to the hearts of those myth-making Americans who have decreed that New York schools must have a course in Irish Famine Studies in which the famine is portrayed as a deliberate act of genocide by the dastardly British. Of course our Tony didn't actually go as far as admitting that the famine was genocide, preferring to blame the tragedy on the disgraceful lack of a nineteenth century Welfare State and an incompetent Government of "the richest country in the world". A description that the British poor living in Dickensian squalor would have considered a trifle inapt.

In fact the potato blight that was the cause of the last of several Irish famines also affected Britain and most of Europe. The British Government of the day did provide a great deal of food at enormous cost to Ireland, but it could never be enough. However, let not facts stand in the way of a good grovel.

I suppose the next act of contrition that might dissuade the friends of Gerry Adams from killing even more of our people could be to apologise for 'Bloody Sunday' but even that will not be enough, for the great Irish tradition of victimhood will not be satisfied by such a paltry gesture. Irish culture is a grievance culture and as the commonsense Irishwoman Mary Kenny once sagely observed; "If an Irishman cuts his finger, the way he tells it will make it seem like a bloodbath."

Since Tony is now in snivelling mode and most of us have at least some Norman blood, he might as well apologise for the Norman invasion of Ireland way back in the twelfth century. The Normans established the city of Dublin and protected it with a stockade of palings. Thus all the savage tribes outside the defences were described as being "beyond the pale."

He could also, I suppose at the same time, apologise for Oliver Cromwell who managed to subdue the rebellious Irish in double quick time.

However, since he has said that he wishes to be deeply involved in the EU, perhaps he could apologise to the Danish Government for the Saxon massacre of Danish settlers late in the reign of Ethelred the Unready. What they did to them and the Saxon women who had shackled up with them doesn't bear thinking about and one wonders what would have been the Saxon reaction to more recent invaders who have helped to put our Tony in power.

Since Tony has also declared that he will be "tough" in Europe, he might counterbalance this by demanding that the Danish Government repay the Danegeld extorted from the Anglo-Saxons by Danish protection racketeers. With compound interest, this would be a massive sum of money, probably even more than the value of all the gold teeth held in Swiss banks.

TWILIGHT ZONE

Ever since the last war, we have become accustomed to references to "the twilight of the British Empire." This, inexorably, has been extended to what is truly the twilight of the British nation.

Only just recently we have learned that under the Tories' 'tough immigration policy' only one in four of illegal immigrants identified by the police was actually obliged to leave the country. The other three-quarters have either disappeared into the immigrant community or are living quite well on social security while their never-ending appeals are considered.

In the few short weeks since the election of a Labour Government, our new Home Secretary, Jack Straw, has announced his intention of scrapping the Tories' feeble 'primary purpose' rule whereby immigrants who came to this country, allegedly to marry, had to actually prove their case. It was Labour's manifesto promise to scrap this fig leaf that helped them secure their massive immigrant vote. That promise was not highlighted due to the decision by the corrupt old parties that immigration was not an issue — in other words, whether our nation lives or dies is of no consequence.

This attitude has resulted in the escalating tyranny of political correctness. Even before the election, the then Tory Lord Chancellor rebuked Judge William Crawford for using the phrase "working like a nigger" in his comments. This the Lord Chancellor noted, was despite the judge having attended a Judicial Studies Board course on racial awareness! Far from being insulting, I would have thought that Judge Crawford's suggestion that negroes are hard workers highly complimentary.

I don't hate them, I simply hate what their presence has done to my country. I do not blame them for this any more than I blame bees for swarming round the honey pot. I blame the people who left the lid off: the politically correct, mealy mouthed, turncoats who now infest our Parliament. Now them I really do hate.

BATTLE FOR FREE SPEECH, LIBERTY AND FREEDOM

All freedom loving people have to be concerned that following the end of the cold war the peace 'benefit' proved to be a rise in the number of telephone taps in Britain. Last year phone taps rose again and worse is to come because Britain is enmeshing itself ever deeper within the highly statist structures within Europe. Part of this involves joining the FBI's phone tap system which will make tapping easier. Jack Straw, Labour's Home Secretary is keen to make a name for himself as 'tough'. Unfortunately, he will do so in the wake of a Tory government which has passed the most draconian police legislation in Western Europe.

●A further step towards one oppressive monolithic EU has been taken with the decision to outlaw the right of asylum between members of the EU. People fearing persecution in Germany will no longer be able to flee to neighbouring Denmark or even to France and Britain. Political dissidents will simply be handed back to the persecutor

Jim Sharples: The unlikely looking face of the police state country at its own request for summary punishment.

BN has always warned of the dangers to our freedoms from the EU. When Britons are being crushed under the EU jackboot, it will be too late.

●Alison Halford, the former Assistant Chief Constable of Merseyside was awarded £10,000 compensation last month after a European court ruled that her human rights had been breached. ACC Halford had telephone taps place on her by her superiors for no other reason than her claims of sexual discrimination in being passed over for promotion.

SLEEZE AND CORRUPTION AT WESTMINSTER

Two Labour MPs have been suspended by Labour head office. These are Mohammed Sarwar MP for Glasgow Govan who is said to have given £5,000 to an election opponent to fight a losing campaign and Bob Wareing MP for Liverpool West Derby whose private company has been said to have struck a deal which wasn't registered in the House of Commons register of members interests.

Both men potentially have the police breathing down their necks if there has been any wrong doing. Jack Straw said that he was looking for corrupt MPs to be gaoled for up to seven years. Edwina Currie, former Tory MP for South Derbyshire has said: "If they made it illegal for MPs to take money under the counter, you would have to gaoil half of Parliament."

●Jonathan Aitken, the former Tory cabinet member has been proved to have lied in open court in his libel prosecution of The Guardian and Granada TV. His case has collapsed leaving him owing £2 million. Aitken entered into an illegal arms deal, was paid by Arabs to clinch deals and generally lied and cheated as only a government minister can do. The Guardian is pressing for a criminal trial of Aitken to follow on charges of perjury and conspiracy to pervert the course of justice. If found guilty, Aitken would be imprisoned immediately.

These creatures demonstrate what the BNP has said about the calibre of men attracted to Parliament for many years. Self interest, corruption and wheeler-dealing abound. There is scarcely any thought given to constituents and none for the country whatsoever.

Mohammed Sarwar

The US government is being sued by a man from Detroit who wants to be declared black. When Mostafa [Hefny] moved to the US a few years ago immigration officials classed him as white. At first, North African-born Mostafa thought the bureaucrats were doing him a big favour. Life as a white man sounded like a breeze. [but] Mostafa says that being classified as one made his life a misery. He went looking for jobs and a home but found the rules had been rigged. Employers and councils with 'minority quotas' to fill wouldn't give him the time of day. He was turned down for business loans. Colleges closed their doors to him.

Now he knows the truth. America's whites are the victims of discrimination. William Langley, The Sun.

If Pakistani/Bangladeshi Muslims in this country want a theocracy with Sharia law, I suggest a suitable place to campaign for it would be in the northern sector of the Indian subcontinent. It behoves these Muslims to remember that they are guests in this country whose toleration by the larger host nation is conditional upon good manners. If guests overstep the proper limits of courtesy and hospitality, they are normally encouraged to remove themselves and to return whence they came.

Surinder Bihant Singh (Dr), Letters, Lancs. Evening Telegraph.

I am writing to express my anger, frustration and disgust at the current state of our society. My son, who is nearly sixteen, was recently mugged for the second time in five weeks.

The first incident was in Market Street, Manchester when he and three school friends were surrounded by four coloured youths aged 17 or 18. They took money off my son and his friends, but they were not harmed, just shaken.

The second incident in Bury interchange was very different. He was surrounded by six Asian youths, all about his own age. One demanded his walkman and when my son refused, he was punched in the face. He was then punched in the face by a second youth and his wallet taken.

Both these attacks were perpetrated by so-called 'ethnic minorities' on white teenagers. Why do I feel they were racially motivated? Why do I also feel that if the tables were reversed there would be banner headlines about 'racial attacks'? Why has scant attention been paid to this state of affairs, particularly in Bury where attacks of this nature are not uncommon?

Concerned mother, Letters, Bury Times.

liberals are the ones demanding curbs on free speech. So the Anti-Nazi League protested outside the television companies demanding that the British National Party broadcast

ANOTHER LEEDS RIOT

Not long after the last riot in Leeds (see June BN) came another when Muslims from the Harehills district of Leeds rioted against a video store said to be stocking copies of The Border.

Border is a new Indian film covering the Indo-Pakistani wars and which features a copy of the Koran thrown to the ground. In the Asian Harehills district of the city, more than 300 Muslims threw bottles, stones and sticks at police in an attempt to get to the video store and burn it down. Uppity councillor Javid Akhtar claimed that heavy-handed policing 'inflamed the situation'. BN has news for Akhtar. On the Indian subcontinent, police would have been supported by the army who would have charged in with the baton and the boot. Heads would have been cracked and the slightest sign of resistance would have led to a fire order by the officer in charge. BN says stop whining Akhtar you baby!

ABOLISH THE RACE COUNCILS!

Mrs. Valerie McGrory Chairman of Bury Racial Equality Council has resigned because she could not "justify its continued existence." As with other racial equality groups, BREC has become the vehicle for just one ethnic minority — the Asians and they were themselves squabbling as to which religious sect should have dominance — and control of its funding. While the story had plenty of local shock value, organised Asians stepped in to deliver a signed letter from the heads of 17 local Asian organisations which say they back BREC. On her resignation, McGrory also said: "I do not wish to identify myself with an organisation which is developing into an exclusive club. The aims and objectives have become meaningless."

Mrs. McGrory is a liberal of the worst immigrant-fawning sort. Even she, it seems, has been made to realise that multi-racialism cannot be made to work because of the basic instinct present in all races to advance their own group interests — even on the committee of Bury REC! Last month, BN reported that corruption and racial advantage was so rife within Calderdale REC that the local council suspended all further funding. The sooner the whole REC idea comes crashing down in ignominy the better.

Even arch-liberal Val McGrory cannot justify race group's existence

THE SCUM THAT OPPOSE THE BNP

Mr. Niven Charvet, former Labour prospective MEP, former head of training for the European Parliament, and co-founder of the repulsive anti-British hate group — the so-called and self-styled Hebden Bridge Anti-Nazi League, has been charged with importing cannabis valued at £12,000 into Britain.

This disgusting anti-patriotic drug dealing low life has been charged with possessing drugs with intent to supply and of importing drugs. BN hopes to bring more news on this case as it demonstrates the kind of people who typify the enemies of nationalism.

●Another Labour criminal has been unmasked. Labour councillor Danny Carnan is behind bars after indecently assaulting a woman. After his arrest for the sex attack, he offered his resignation from Swindon council which was immediately accepted.

be banned. 'No free speech for Nazis', they say. And when the Islamic society is banned from college, or the Pro-Life Alliance broadcast is banned they say 'no free speech for bigots'. When lecturers are banned for talking about sex they say 'no free speech for sexists'.

All the time they seem to forget that free speech is not free speech if you have to submit your views to a committee for approval beforehand. Being free to speak is like being pregnant — you are or are not.

The knee-jerk reaction of the left is 'ban it', because they have so little faith in the ability of ordinary people to decide for themselves. No wonder they do not like the idea of free speech. They think that in any open argument they are bound to lose. It is not the rights of the British National Party that are curtailed — it is the right of everybody else to decide for themselves what they think of the BNP's appeal.

James Heartfield, Living Marxism.

In his review of recent books on southern Africa, John Simpson spouted the usual BBC/liberal propaganda line.

He claims that white Rhodesians 'have buckled down to life under Mugabe, and are making the best of it.' In fact most whites have left the country; the white population has fallen from 270,000 to about 60,000 and these are mainly elderly.

John Rees, Letters, Daily Telegraph.

The Labour Party and 'ban-it' Blair's Government are, as usual, making no sense at all. How can Home Secretary Jack Straw say major sporting events, including pistol shooting, can still go ahead in Britain after a complete pistol ban? If we are to host an Olympic/Commonwealth Games, where are the visiting pistol teams going to shoot? And where will our own teams practise?

Sally Green, Letters, Daily Mail.

THE COOKED REPORT AND A BELLYFUL OF LAUGHS

Last month, ITV screened the last in the series of The Cook Report. Typically, the corpulent crusader is hot on the trail of shady johnnies selling dodgy time shares and conning old ladies out of their life savings. Lots of secret camera work reveal all the shady deals and the end game is when Cook himself appears to thrust his microphone under the nose of some small-time thief who shouts some abuse before pulling his jacket over his head and legging it. This is the part that all Cook fans love especially as there is always the prospect of some villain 'putting one' on Mr. Cook. At the end of which, Cook solemnly intones that the 'dossier' has been passed over to the police.

It came as some surprise then that Carlton TV took time out from pursuing drug dealers, burglars, con artists and the like to "exclusively expose the far right's plans for Britain" (Oh err!) What it amounted to was a rehash of a number of initiatives published in various magazines up to two years ago. As many of these ideas had come from Nick Griffin, he was himself approached by a Cook team disguised as Front National representatives to explain them further, which he did. Much poor quality footage was thus obtained of Nick explaining how a nationalist radio station operating from Eastern Europe could be of benefit to nationalism in Europe.

As a smear/exposé it was the thinnest and weakest that many will ever have seen. So poor was it that Cook roped in some losers calling themselves 'the Klan'. Quite where they fitted in was never made clear. Also roped in was the National Front and their disreputable-looking Birmingham rep. Wayne Ashcroft, whose expletive deleted dialogue gave an amusing commentary on the state of what's left of the Front. Also amusing was the attempt to smear Nick and therefore the BNP with Jean Marie Le Pen's Front National! Cook found two old dears in Orange in the South of France (a FN stronghold) dressed in bright floral dresses with the sunshine streaming into their comfortable middle class home trying earnestly to convince the camera crew that they were living under a new Hitler régime in the South of France!

At the end of this sorry show, Cook collared his victim to suddenly find the tables turned. It wasn't so much 'Cook gets Griffin' as 'Griffin got Cook'! Displaying a poster reading 'The Cooked Report' Nick tore a strip off the incompetent and

ROGER COOK:
Not as clever as he thinks he is corpulent Cook by saying "it's not such a surprise" (the Cook Report team's inept bumbblings had given the game away for months before hand — detailed on the Internet by the BNP[see May BN]). Cook then asked his damning questions:— Cook: "You're quite happy to foment racial tension in society?"

Griffin: "No, racial tension exists because people like you have created a multi-racial society."

Cook: "Want do you want to do, send them all home?"

Griffin: "Yes." (shock, horror!) As a final commentary on Cook and his shabby agent provocateurism Nick finished: "You're all low lives, you know you are."

And with that the 'show' was over. No dodgy dealings, no illegalities, no shocking revelations and Cook unable to utter his catchphrase: "This dossier has been handed over to the police." All in all, the dampest of damp squibs.

BN BRIEFING

REPATRIATION FILE

The USA repatriated 40,822 illegal immigrants back to their home countries in just the first three months of this year.

HERE THEY COME!

Thousands of people besieged Hong Kong's immigration department to collect application forms for post-handover passports. More than 40,000 forms were handed out in just one morning alone, which is reminiscent of the stampede last year when 50,000 queued for British passports. The new passports are recognised by Britain with no visa being necessary.

SORTED!

Afghan drug smuggler Nazeefallah Alajan Mohammed, who had been found guilty of taking heroin into Saudi Arabia was beheaded in the holy city of Mecca. The Saudis have executed fifty criminals so far this year.

81 JOIN MILE HIGH CLUB

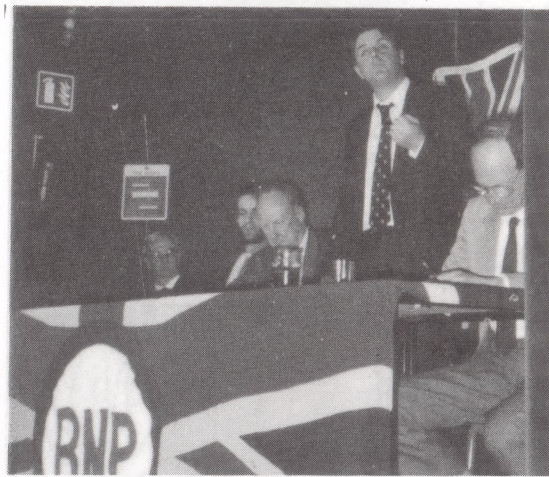

Eighty-one 'British' tourists were deported by Spanish police after causing mayhem on a flight from Gatwick to Tenerife. The dreadlocked Rastas were drunk, smoked pot, fought and engaged in sexual intercourse on the plane.

WHITES NEED NOT APPLY

Blackburn Council and the Asian Housing Association have agreed that some 300 four and five bedroomed houses are to be built over the next two years to meet the 'special needs' of the town's burgeoning Asian population. Called 'Asian needs in the 21st Century', a whole package of goodies is being lined up for these special people. Local whites on the other hand will receive no such special consideration. They will have to tell themselves, that this (at the moment, hush-hush) project is their sacrifice to build the multi-racial society.

GAY GAMES FOR LONDON

Waltham Forest Council in London is considering whether to stage a 'Gay Games' just for homosexuals. Lots of men in tight pink shorts would compete for the title of Britain's quickest queer in the 100, 200 and 400 metres. Special 'brown hatter' balloons would be released to mark the opening of the games.

LAND OF HOPE AND GLORY MILK AND HONEY

Milton Keynes along with London has been the first target for Hong Kong refugees to settle in. More than 1,000 have arrived in Milton Keynes and 3,000 more are expected. Their arrival has prompted a property boom and as a result, local people find that they cannot afford to buy a home. Local police are reportedly liaising with their colleagues from Manchester and London with regard to triad control.

On the deadline of the handover of Hong Kong from Britain to China, 4,000 Chinese troops of the sort that perpetrated the Tiananmen Square massacre crossed the border supported by heavy armoured cars, machine guns and helicopters. How many more Hong Kong Chinese will come is an open ended guess. Three million? Five million? And all invited by the Tories!

More on that party political broadcast

A little publicised snippet of news percolated out of The Guardian recently with respect to all the sad wannabe Pol Pots who objected to the BNP's party political broadcast. The piece penned by Andrew Culf, the Guardian's media correspondent said that Broadcasters were praised by the Independent Television Commission for taking 'difficult' decisions over two controversial party election broadcasts. Eighty-seven complaints about the BNP's broadcast (and thirty-two about the Pro-Life Alliance broadcast) were rejected. The ITC said the broadcasts had not breached its code and 'the party's policy on immigration had been communicated briefly and without strident language.' That said, a surreal element creeps in because the ITC also said that 'The most offensive images had been removed from the versions shown on commercial television.' These were of course the brief sequences showing identifiable members of ethnic minorities who had not given their permission for it to be shown, and which cut down version was shown on ITV, Channel 5 and Sky News. No-one appears to have picked up on the fact that the ITC are saying that footage of ethnic minorities is offensive!

The ITC also made it clear that Channel 4 had not shown the broadcast, not because of any principle but because the BNP was unable to make one detailed edit within the timescale and the channel had a policy of not helping any political party to make its broadcast.

Sir,
In October 1996 an asylum seeker from Nigeria was admitted into Whittington hospital suffering from malaria. Two days later, they realised that he also had 'rabies', although if malaria had already been diagnosed this would indicate a far more deadly disease — ebola; this virus exhibits malaria like symptoms in its very early stages. At any rate, rabies or ebola, the man was transferred to Coppets Wood Isolation hospital and was dead within a week.

Disease has now become an added and deadly threat to be associated with immigration. Yet the government will not undertake health checks on immigrants. It appears that rabies brought into this country and walking on two legs is a harmless rabies. Only rabies brought in on four legs is a nasty rabies. Even so, animals do not go shopping in crowded supermarkets — obviously a fact of no importance.

Peter Stafford,

Sir,
During a recent interview with New Yorker magazine, M. Le Pen of the Front National was asked how he envisaged the future of Europe. He replied: "A Europe of fatherlands, where national movements would have a common view which includes love of the fatherland, the earth, the past and traditional values."

Could not the BNP endorse this view, so leaving the way open to future good relations with friendly European governments? We should not allow our present anti-E.U. stance to lead to us turning away from Europe altogether.

Mr. Irving,
Plymouth.

[The party does indeed endorse this view. Being anti-E.U. doesn't mean being anti-European — Ed]

Sir,
I have had many conversations with lefties and beaten them hands down. At this point, they usually retreat into name calling e.g. "Fascist, Nazi" etc. (How wounding). One conversation turned on the American Indians, and I asked of a Marxist: "Do you feel they were persecuted?" "Definitely" came the reply. "So you agree with them trying to kick the pale faces out of America." "Yes", he said. I asked him: "Do you call that communism or nationalism?" He admitted: "You've got me there." Doesn't this just show their double standards. Nationalism is, it seems, ok for everybody but us whites.

Mr. Langton,
Birmingham.

Sir,
I am a skilled welder by trade and currently out of work. Every time I've gone down to the job centre, I've been palmed off with shy jobs which would not pay enough to support me, let alone my family which I am trying to bring up on a pittance.

I now have to go on a course because I don't want to be sat around doing nothing. What has happened to the once thriving British economy? Too many foreigners have been allowed to come into Britain and wreck it.

Darren Smith,
Sheffield.

Sir,
I can't tell you how angry I am that British Airways have spent £60 million on scrapping the Union flag on their planes, replacing it with weird alien paintings. Yet BA's staff are considering strike action over pay. It proves these big companies will do anything to please outsiders but do little or nothing for their own staff.

Nick Jackson,

ISRAEL

AUSTRALIA

Israel is preparing legislation to ban the New Testament. The Holy land bible ban has got Christians world wide worked up into a lather as Israel is determined to crack down on evangelism. Possession of the New Testament will be made a crime punishable by one years imprisonment.

The new law, specifically aimed against missionary activity, has passed its first Knesset reading and is now before the parliamentary law committee.

Clarence Wagner, a Jerusalem-based Christian said: "Just having a New Testament in my home can be construed in certain quarters as being missionary."

Jan Willem Van der Hoewen, the spokesman for the pro-Israeli International Christian Embassy in Jerusalem has said that the Israeli moves could diminish support for Israel among evangelical Christians.

That point underlines the crucial importance to the Israeli economy of tourism. Widespread disgust at Israeli atrocities in the Lebanon had a big impact on tourism to Israel as Europeans stayed away in droves. A militant Christian campaign based around the banning of the New Testament could well have the same affect, particularly with regard to Church-organised tours of the Holy land.

Also in Israel, the land of legalised torture, comes news that Premier Netanyahu has appointed double murderer Ehud Yatom as an anti-terrorist consultant. Yatom publicly admitted the summary execution of two Palestinians in 1984 when a policeman. He was quoted as saying: "I am proud of what I have done." All the officers involved in the murder and its cover up were pardoned by President Chaim Herzog.

Just sixteen months after the Liberal Party (Australia's Conservatives) swept the Labour Party out of power, Australia is in social and economic crisis.

Pauline Hanson, the fish and chip shop owner who speaks up for the common man has founded her One Nation Party and is promoting it with an energetic series of barnstorming speeches attended by hundreds of people the length and breadth of this enormous land.

For years, Australians conditioned by politically correct censorship and coercion had suppressed their misgivings about the multi-racial course on which Australia has embarked. With the advent of Pauline Hanson and her One Nation Party, patriotic Australians have a banner to rally to, possibly for the first time ever.

Pauline Hanson, the Liberal Party candidate just before the Australian election last year was dramatically deselected by Liberal leader John Howard for her outspoken views. In her typical gutsy way, Hanson stood as an Independent in the Queensland constituency of Oxley and won in the country's biggest swing anywhere against Labour.

Hanson realises that for her popular views to prevail, she has to do more than speak out as a maverick MP.

This is the reason for the formation of the One Nation Party which plans to field candidates in every seat at the next election. Since its formation, 30,000 membership applications have been sent out and Hanson's ruktion which would up the percentage somewhat. The scare last year also took no account of 26 white churches burnt at the same time or that in the black church burnings, nearly all the arrests made were of blacks. It also turned out that the group alleging the involvement of 'white supremacists' was a notorious communist front

Finally, and obvious to all but the cretinous, the official verdict into the burnings by a Presidential task force has concluded that "there is no evidence to support the 'white supremacist' arson attacks theory on black churches." You read it here first!

BNP TO CONTEST UXBRIDGE BY-ELECTION

The British National Party will definitely be contesting the Uxbridge by-election.

The sitting Conservative MP, Sir Michael Shersby died after only two weeks of winning the seat at the General Election with a much reduced majority of 724.

Uxbridge, on the very west edge of London was last contested by the party in the General Election of 1992, when the party obtained 350 votes for 0.7% of the vote.

The number of candidates in the Uxbridge by-election will quite likely run into double figures with a whole collection of fringe parties all standing and competing for attention.

For this reason, the party needs to do as much work as possible and start as early as possible to lift the party out of the lower order scrum and into a position where, as at Dagenham in 1994, the party came from nowhere to come within a whisker of besting the Lib-Dems and saving the party's election deposit for the very first time.

The party's candidate for Uxbridge is to be the battling Yorkshire lass, Frances Taylor who caused a real upset in Dewsbury by saving her deposit — the first deposit saved outside the capital.

When the party stood in May's General Election, one of the goals was to stake the party's electoral claim to the future. That future is now! Tomorrow will only belong to us if party members and supporters help fight for it. All offers of help to go leafleting either midweek or at weekends should be made to 0374-454893. A big effort is needed to make Uxbridge a success.

NEW BNP GROUPS IN FORMATION!

A number of new groups have been formed over the last month as a result of the hard work accomplished during the General Election.

In Kent — a much neglected part of the UK for the BNP, a new Bexley & Dartford group of the BNP has been formed by the very able Colin Smith, the former Organiser of Newham group and General Election candidate for East Ham, and which under his leadership had become one of the most dynamic party units in London. Newham passes to the very able leadership of Ken Francis, the party's General Election candidate for West Ham.

Bexley & Dartford will be a group to watch for as will the new South Essex group, also led by a former London Organiser, in this case Dave King, the party's former Tower Hamlets Organiser and General Election candidate for Bethnal Green & Bow and who scored the highest BNP vote in that election.

South Essex takes in a big area and basically covers Thurrock and Basildon, but Dave wants anyone in the Essex area interested in activities to get in touch by writing in to the new contact address for South Essex. Dave says that he's determined to repeat the success of Tower Hamlets which became the party's most successful electoral and paper distributing machine and he calls upon everyone to give their support to the new Organiser for Tower Hamlets, Dave Hill who has been busy getting a local leaflet produced, following up all the election enquiries and getting a meeting booked.

In London itself, Waltham Forest group has been formally set up with the appointment of Alan Gould the party's candidate for Chingford & Woodford Green as the Organiser. The party has been trying for years to launch a Waltham Forest group but, despite plenty of support in the area, has always had a problem finding a decent Organiser. Enter Alan Gould one of the party's brightest new recruits and hey presto, problem solved!

Other units formed this month include new groups in Bradford and South Birmingham. Both groups have emerged as a result of the increasing strength of the party in their respective areas since both groups represent decentralisation. The Leeds and Bradford branch recently decentralised to Leeds branch and Leeds East group and now into a Bradford group as well. In Birmingham, the decentralisation affects only South Birmingham under the leadership of Jeffrey Astbury, the party's General Election candidate in Coventry and which has also obtained its own contact telephone number.

The other group to be formed within the last month is Coventry group BNP under the twin leadership of Mark Payne and John Walsh.

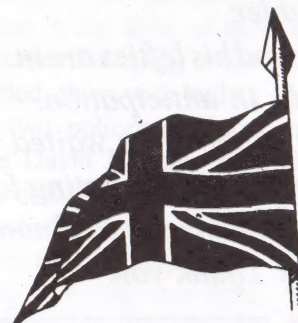

More new groups are in formation!

MONEY NEEDED!

The General Election made very big financial demands upon the BNP and the party is, at the moment, financially exhausted. The party urgently needs donations to regain a sure financial footing. Please send as much as you can afford to enable the party to take advantage of the increased political opportunities which are opening up with the advent of the new Labour government.

Please make all contributions payable to 'British National Party' and send to: PO. Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW.

FOR 1997 — JOIN THE PARTY!

The General Election has catapulted the BNP into national prominence and in it, the party staked its claim for the future. The period ahead of a new Labour government holds out great opportunity. Do what you can to help the party carry on the fight against our nation's enemies and join up!

Rates are the same as for last year: £20 a year with a 50 per cent discount available for OAPs, full-time students and the unemployed. Send off today for the party's smart new membership card.

Every member's dues goes towards maintaining the party's infrastructure, keeping it functioning and making it more effective. Membership of the BNP costs 5.47 pence a day — 2.74 pence if you are unemployed or retired. Is that too much to spend for a future?

One defiant party is fighting back for Britain and the British, is leading the fight for the British way of life, and is showing the British people that one party does speak for them — the British National Party!

Join the party, build the victory!

GENERAL ELECTION ENQUIRIES STILL COMING IN!

Head Office reports that enquiries are still being received from the General Election although at a reduced rate. Clearly there are people who have thought long and hard about the political direction and choices facing this country and some of them have no doubt waited for the first signs to come from the new government.

Nearly 3,000 enquiries have come in from the General Election so far and a big effort is underway by Organisers all over the country to make contact with everyone concerned. Male, female, young, old, working class, middle class and even upper class. All are enquiring of the party for the British, the party of the future — the BNP!

Dear Mr. Andrews,

Just a quick note to thank you for standing as a candidate in my town Taunton recently. I agree 100% with your views as I'm sure many other people do but are too gutless to do anything about it.

I'm a middle aged man who was once proud to be British but it seems successive governments are only too keen to sell us off to the highest bidder.

God help us now that Blair and his lefties are in. The frogs must be rubbing their hands in anticipation.

Anyway, you gave me the chance I've waited years for and that was to vote for someone worth voting for! I have never voted before in my life and always said none of them was worth a vote, until now. Thank you.
